Public Business Items
None

Unfinished Business
VFW Freedom Park:
Ken House updated the Park Board on securing the 99 year lease with the VFW Post and the City. The next step is to ask two firms, to bid this project at no cost. If we are turned down we can work with the Reserve Group. The VFW will also be hiring an architect for the building design work. The building will consist of a public banquet center, Day-A-Way Center, and pavilion. The next step on the City side is to work with the VFW Post on getting the developers agreement completed.

Skate Park Design/Fundraising:
Noah Wiedenfeld updated the board and stated; the current donations are $78,750.00. He and Michael Mroz have been doing research and found concrete to be quieter; more durable than other materials. The initial cost may be higher but more economical in the long run. The preferred concrete design is called the "Plaza Style". The RFP will go out listing the funds currently raised with a notation that other funds that are donated to the projectcould be added to the contract. Motion was made by Jon Hailey to recommend sending out RFP for designing/building a park with concrete material, and move forward building the skate park seconded by Christine Melby, motion carried.

2016 Projects:
Jeremiah will send out the Park Plan summary sheet with cost estimates. Each member is asked to rank the items according to their priorityand return to Jeremiah by the due date. This will give us a starting point for 2016 projects.

Athletic Field Reservation Form:
Michael gave information on the reservation procedure and the new reservation form. He plans on placing the calendar on the website for all teams to view. Craig Kittle moved to accept the registration form as presented, seconded by Brian Schroeder, motion carried.

St. Croix Bike and Pedestrian Trails Coalition:

Ben Heuiser presented background information on the projects and objectives of the plan. There are over 15 communities on the coalition working on this project. The plan is to connect some of the trails throughout the county. Safe Routes to school are also being included in the plan. The final plan should be adopted in August or September.

Use of Concession Stand at Hatfield Park:

Jeremiah Wendt gave some background information on the concession stand. Brad Altena, representing the baseball club, was asking about selling concessions at the small concession stand on the nights they use both fields. Jerry Frey, on behalf of the Hatfield Softball Association stated he would like to work with the groups on use of the concession stand. Youth Softball or Baseball should have exclusive rights to the concession stand when they are holding tournaments, as well as league nights. The lease agreement will be redone to reflect the usage of the concession stand.

Library Story Walk:

Kim Hennings the librarian of the Friday Memorial Library presented information on the Story Walk. The Library has received a grant to purchase 16 frames; these frames can be permanently placed. MEMORANDUM

TO: Park Board

FROM: Noah Wiedenfeld, Management Analyst

DATE: March 18, 2016

SUBJECT: John Doar Civil Rights History Trail

BACKGROUND

An architectural concept has been developed for the proposed John Doar Civil Rights History Trail, which would be located around the Mill Pond. The concept includes six interpretive panels mounted on limestone blocks with granite caps. The panels would tell the story of John Doar's life and career, beginning with his childhood and continuing in chronological order to when he received the Presidential Medal of Freedom. Six benches would be located opposite the interpretive signs on the west side of the existing sidewalk, and additional trees, shrubs, and perennials would also be planted.

Bill Sanders, Senior Landscape Architect with Loucks Inc, will be at the meeting to give a short presentation about the proposed project, including an estimated budget and timeline.

RENAMING THE MILL POND TRAIL

In addition to the proposed trail concept, the Park Board should consider whether or not to change the name of the existing "Mill Pond Trail" to "John Doar Civil Rights History Trail." The naming rights policy that was drafted in 2013 suggests that when considering the renaming of an existing trail, the Park Board should consider whether the proposed name recognizes an individual of historical and cultural significance, and whether the trail would recognize a person of enduring importance to the community and the nation.

POSSIBLE ACTION

The Park Board will be asked to consider approving the concept for the John Doar Civil Rights History Trail. If approved, the concept would then advance to the City Council in April.

LOUCKS

JOHN DOAR CIVIL RIGHTS HISTORY TRAIL

Phase 1 2016

1. INTREPRETIVE SIGNS (6) – describing the life and career of John Doar. Each sign will be 2' x 4' with text and color photos/graphics set into a steel frame and mounted on top of a limestone and granite pedestal.

2. BENCHES (6) – located opposite the interpretive signs on the west side of the existing walk.

3. LANDSCAPING – shade trees, flowering trees, shrubs and perennials would be planted to provide, shade, color and softness to the trail.

John Doar Civil Rights History Trail

First panel (to be placed on south side of Doughboy Dam just west of Mill Pond; illustration could be the baseball photo with his dad.)

John Doar was born on December 3, 1921 and lived just west of here at 510 West First Street with his parents, William Thomas Doar, Sr. and Mary Frances (May) Doar, and his older brother, William Thomas Doar, Jr. (Tom). As boys, John and Tom played football, basketball and baseball, explored the island in the Willow River and attended Immaculate Conception Church. During those years, the Doar boys were close to two cousins who were also New Richmond residents: John V. McNally, who was to be known as Johnny Blood, the Shakespeare-quoting halfback for the Green Bay Packers; and Warren P. Knowles Jr., who would grow up to become the Governor of Wisconsin in the 1960s.

Second Panel (To be on north side of dam – panels go around Mill Pond arching to the east ending near the main street entrance to the park, illustration could be Princeton graduation photo or air corps photo)

After going east for college and west for law school, and serving in the Army Air Corps in WW II, John came home to New Richmond in 1950 to practice law with his father, brother Tom and cousin Warren. In May 1960, John left New Richmond to move to Washington, DC to serve in the newly established Civil Rights Division of the United States Justice Department. Soon after starting in the Division, John travelled south to Fayette County, Tennessee and East Carroll Parish, Louisiana investigating voting rights cases. Those first efforts, and the countless cases that the Division brought throughout the south over the next five years, laid the legal foundation for the Voting Rights Act of 1965.

Third Panel (illustration: Map of the south with flags for Montgomery, Jackson, Oxford, Selma and Philadelphia, Fayette county and East Carroll Parish)

During his years in the Civil Rights Division, John was involved in many of the most important challenges of the civil rights struggle. As the lead person in the South for the federal government, he was called the "law-bringer south of the Mason Dixon line." In 1961, he was in Montgomery when the Freedom Riders arrived; in 1962, he escorted James Meredith as the first black to be admitted to the University of Mississippi; in 1963, he stopped a riot in Jackson, Mississippi after the funeral of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers; in 1964, he helped to draft the Civil Rights Act; and in 1965, he represented the federal government in Selma, Alabama in the days leading up to, and during, the historic Selma to Montgomery march.

John prosecuted two important civil rights cases involving murder. In 1965, he led the successful prosecution of the members of Ku Klux Klan who had participated in the killing of Viola Liuzzo who was killed in the hours after the Selma march; and in 1967, he successfully prosecuted the Klan members in Neshoba County, Mississippi who had participated in the murder of three young civil rights workers – Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney. Convictions in those cases – before southern judges and southern juries -- were key turning points in the civil rights movement.

Fifth Panel (Not sure)

In 1967, John left the Civil Rights Division to move to New York to lead an anti-poverty program begun by Sen. Robert Kennedy in Bedford Stuyvesant, a poor neighborhood in the center of Brooklyn. During his first years in Brooklyn, he also served as the President of the New York City Board of Education. In December 1973, John was called back to Washington to serve as the Special Counsel to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry into the conduct of President Richard Nixon.

John's leadership of the impeachment inquiry staff led to the Judiciary Committee voting with overwhelming bipartisan majorities to recommend three articles of impeachment of President Nixon. Soon after those votes, President Nixon resigned from office. In the years following the impeachment inquiry, John practiced law in New York and around the country. He frequently returned to New Richmond and along with his brother Tom, contributed to the life of New Richmond in countless ways. In May of 2012, President Barack Obama awarded John the Presidential Medal of Freedom for his service to his country.

John Doar died on November 11, 2014. He always loved New Richmond.

RE: Healthy Hatfield Habitat Project

Background: In the fall of 2015, the City of New Richmond received two grants totaling $1,500 to be used towards pollinator friendly plants and birdhouses to be constructed around Hatfield Lake at Hatfield Park and Freedom Park. The grants came from the Natural Resources Foundation of Wisconsin, and Star Prairie Fish and Game. New Richmond High School students enrolled in Rachel Sauvola's agriscience classes will be conducting the background research and labor (constructing the houses, transplanting plants, etc.) as part of their coursework.

Four high school students (Anthony Kastens, Noah Boyd, Nic Schlicht, and Jordan Saunders) will deliver a short presentation to the Park Board about their preliminary research, as well as the locations and plant types that they are proposing. If approved by the Park Board, the project will be completed this spring.

Staff Recommendation: Discuss and approve student-presented locations for pollinator beds and birdhouses near Hatfield Park and Freedom Park.

RE: Wisconsin DNR dragonfly study

Background: The City has been approached by a volunteer, Joe Sommerfeld, representing the Wisconsin DNR to perform a dragonfly study in throughout the City of New Richmond Park system. The goal of the survey is to gain more knowledge about the distribution and habitat requirements of dragonflies and damselflies in Wisconsin. What he would be doing is walking along the shores of ponds, lakes, rivers, and streams, taking photos, catching (studying and releasing) adult specimens, and catching and collecting specimens of underwater nymphs (baby dragonflies) to study. The places he would like to look are Hatfield Park, Mary Park and the Nature Center along the Willow River and the parks along Paperjack Creek.

Staff Recommendation: A motion to approve the request made by Joe Sommerfeld to utilize the City of New Richmond Park system to conduct a dragonfly survey for the Wisconsin DNR.
